CLARK COUNTY'S COMMITMENT TO EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

Clark County is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing equal opportunity in employment and in access to the provision of all county services. This commitment applies regardless of race, color, religion, creed, sex, marital status, national origin, disability, age, veteran status, on-the-job injury, or sexual orientation. Employment decisions are made without consideration of these or any other factors that are prohibited by law.

The purpose of the county's EEOP is to ensure full and equal participation of all qualified individuals in the county's workforce as described above. The county's commitment to that full participation is fundamental to its daily operations and public service activities.

The EEOP demonstrates the county's commitment to action-oriented steps to ensure equal opportunity. It was adopted by the Board of Clark County Commissioners after a public outreach effort that included a public forum in July 2006. To attract attendees to the forum, news releases were sent to local newspapers and paid advertising was purchased in minority newspapers, their applicable websites and on minority radio stations.

As a recipient agency of U.S. Department of Justice grant funds, the county's most recent EEOP was submitted in April 2004. At the DOJ's request, the county's current EEOP is provided here. The Plan's effective dates are May 6, 2006 to May 6, 2008.

Bill Barron
County Administrator

CLARK COUNTY OVERVIEW

The first and oldest county in the state of Washington, Clark County dates its start from June 27, 1844, when the Provisional Government of the Oregon Territory set aside the area north of the Columbia River as the Vancouver District. The county was later named for explorer William Clark. While camped near Vancouver Lake on March 30, 1806, explorer Meriwether Lewis wrote that the area was the best place for a settlement west of the Rocky Mountains.

Location

Located in southwestern Washington State, Clark County is approximately 70 miles from the Pacific Ocean. It is physically compact, measuring approximately 25 miles across in either direction, encompassing 656 square miles. The Columbia River forms the western and southern boundaries of the county, with more than 40 miles of river frontage. Clark County is bordered to the south by Oregon, and is 10 miles from downtown Portland, Oregon, a metropolitan area of 1.5 million residents.

Government

The county is governed by the three-member Board of Clark County Commissioners. They are elected by the voters to a four-year term, as are the Assessor, Auditor, Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, Sheriff, and Treasurer. These elected officials provide government services to the third most-densely-populated county in the state.

Economy

The county's diverse economy is integrally linked with the Portland, Oregon metropolitan area. Transportation facilities, serving both sides of the river, have created a regional hub for commerce. Transcontinental rail lines serving the county traverse major north-south and east-west routes. Interstate 5 and 205 provide access to the vital economic centers of Seattle, Washington, San Francisco, California, and points beyond. The Portland International Airport, just fifteen minutes south of Vancouver, is an essential community and economic development asset.

Clark County is experiencing an increasing demand for services, characteristic of the residential nature of a bedroom community, thereby currently creating a challenging situation for Clark County leadership. A rise in industrial and commercial development is needed to generate the increases in public revenues that are required to satisfy growing service demands.

SECTION VII: DATA ANALYSIS

DATA ANALYSIS

The charts on the preceding pages summarize the county's workforce, community labor statistics and utilization. As noted in Charts 3 and 4, the 2000 Census data for the Portland-Vancouver, OR-WA Primary Metropolitan Statistical Area is used for all job categories except for the Office/Clerical, Skilled Craft, and Service Maintenance categories for which the 2000 Census data for Clark County is used. Recruiting, advertising, applicant flow, and selection patterns demonstrate that the Clark County area is the appropriate labor market for these three job groups.

Careful review of Chart 4's utilization figures is critical to understanding Clark County's workforce composition. In the 24 instances of "underutilization" denoted by the tan highlighting, the assessment of "underutilization" would be entirely reversed if the county hired one individual in the protected class. For example, the hiring of an American Indian or Alaskan Native (AI/AN) in the Professional category would result in a representation rate of 0.6% and parity with the labor market percentage rather than the "underutilization" finding of -0.1% which now exists.

There are additional instances (denoted by blue highlighting) for which the assessment of "underutilization" would be reversed if the county added two or three individuals into the job category. And other instances of "significant underutilization" (denoted by yellow highlighting) would require four or more individuals to be hired by the county in order to match the community workforce.

The following chart shows exactly how many persons from each ethnic group would need to be hired by Clark County in order to match the community' within in each job category:

Targeted Categories

The county does not dismiss the importance of making progress in improving representation rates through numerically-small hires, promotions, or reassignments. But we believe our attention must be focused on those targeted categories with significant underutilization rates (denoted by data in bold typeface with yellow highlighting). Specifically, we identify significant underutilization in the following categories:

Male	Female
Professionals: Asian/Pacific Is. (A/PI)	Officials/Administrators: White (W)
Technicians: Asian/Pacific Is. (A/PI)	Technicians: White, Black, and A/PI
Sworn Patrol Officers: Hispanic (H)	Sworn Patrol Officers: White (W)
Office Clerical: White, Black, and A/PI
Skilled Craft: Hispanic
Service/Maint.: Hispanic

SECTION VIII: OBJECTIVES

OBJECTIVES

It is the county's objective to increase the number of employees in each of the groups that have significant underutilization.

Specific Goals and Steps to Remedy Underutilization

Goal #1: Increase Clark County's reputation as an employer of choice for all by ensuring the culture is one that values diversity.

Specific Steps:

- 1.1 Research and evaluate best practices of other jurisdictions and private companies to drive culture change throughout the county in support of equal opportunity and diversity including the formation of an advisory committee, employee training, performance measurement tools and/or new management practices.
- 1.2 Recommend to the Board of County Commissioners and other elected officials by December 15, 2006 options for future action.
- 1.3 Allocate county resources in support of diversity efforts.

Goal #2: Increase the number of women and minorities applying for jobs in the targeted category areas.

Specific Steps:

- 2.1 Target job fairs that emphasize diversity and send female and minority staff members to speak and recruit at local community colleges, technical schools, universities, career expos, job fairs, etc. In addition to using HR recruiters for outreach, train and send department representatives of diverse ethnicity to represent the county and speak from personal experience.
- 2.2 Increase employee and leadership participation at diverse community-based events and club or organizational meetings in order to increase recognition of the county as an employer of choice.
- 2.3 Continue to advertise job openings in newspapers and journals that target specific diverse populations. Continue to provide copies of job openings to effective outreach organizations. (See Appendix C for outreach groups receiving all county job postings.) Ensure that all recruiters and recruiting materials articulate the county's commitment to workplace diversity and/or equal opportunity employment.
- 2.4 Continue working with Washington State WorkSource and other organizations that provide retraining for displaced workers. Use the contacts to attract qualified women into our under-represented occupations.

- 2.5 Incorporate one or more diversity-related questions in supplemental questionnaires and/or interviews for supervisory and management positions.
- 2.6 Confer with women and minority employees or others who regularly work with women and minorities in the community to assist in finding effective methods to attract diverse applicants.

Goal #3: Ensure that managers and supervisors support a diverse workforce, and consider this while making hiring decisions, especially in those categories/occupations that show significant underutilization (as listed in the chart on page 17).

Specific Steps:

- 3.1 Conduct training sessions with county managers, supervisors, and staff involved in the hiring/promotion process. Share the utilization analysis developed for this report.
- 3.2 Review the utilization analysis and specific department reports with hiring managers to remind them of their role in meeting the county's goals of improving female and minority representation.
- 3.3 HR will consult with hiring managers on outreach efforts, recruiting plans and interview processes prior to initiating a recruitment.
- 3.4 Evaluate the effectiveness of screening applicants without knowledge of their name.

Goal #4: Identify opportunities for improving county practices in support of diversity through analysis and reporting.

Specific Steps:

- 4.1 Work with the county's IT staff to develop reports that will inform management of the county's and specific department's EEO representation.
- 4.2 Periodically review data regarding community labor statistics, applicant pools, selection rates and retention of employees in relation to gender and ethnicity.
- 4.3 Evaluate the achievement of EEOP goals, monitor effectiveness and provide a summary of results to all elected officials and senior management semi-annually.

SECTION IX: ACTION-ORIENTED PROGRAMS

ACTION-ORIENTED PROGRAMS

The purpose of the Equal Opportunity Employment program is to ensure equal employment opportunities to all Clark County employees and qualified applicants. The following programs will help the county successfully undertake this program.

A. Recruitment and Advertisement

In our efforts to recruit qualified minorities and women, we strive to communicate with these groups in various ways, including annual written affirmation of the county's commitment to EEO; sending county postings to representative organizations on a regular basis; and encouraging them to refer qualified minorities and women for open positions. In 2006 we will increase these efforts. The county will continue to be represented at career fairs at local colleges and universities as budget permits. The phrase "Equal Opportunity Employer" is on all of our advertisements and job postings. Appendix C is the outreach distribution list of diverse organizations to which the county sends notice of all external job openings.

B. Employment Procedures

All job postings include public notice that the county is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To underscore this commitment when applicants are known to be female or minority, HR staff works with hiring managers to ensure consideration of qualified female and minority applicants in underrepresented categories.

C. Employment and Selection

When a job is posted for a group or a department, the Human Resources staff will be responsible for reviewing applications and working with the hiring authority to ensure appropriate consideration is given to all qualified candidates.

Human Resources staff will work with departments in defining job requirements. This practice helps assure that job requirements are valid for the position being filled. Inflated requirements may rule out underrepresented candidates who are in fact capable of doing the work.

It is the responsibility of the Human Resources staff to review all applications and/or the application(s) of the finalist(s) for minimum requirements in conformance with State and Federal employment standards.

Interview panels are utilized so that the possibility of individual biases is reduced. Consideration will be given to the staffing of interview panels with diverse members of the county's workforce.

D. Discrimination Complaints

Procedures (both formal and informal) have been developed to resolve those situations where an applicant or employee from a protected class believes that her/his rights have been violated.

Applicants and employees may file such a complaint with the Human Resources Department. All complaints will be investigated. It will be the responsibility of the Human Resources Department to involve other appropriate staff in the investigation of a complaint. In conjunction with any disciplinary or remedial actions, whenever appropriate, attempts will be made to resolve the complaint through mediation. Applicants and employees have the right to file discrimination complaints related to employment practices or procedures with federal, state, or local compliance agencies.

All employees, including elected officials, are expressly prohibited from retaliating against or harassing an employee who has filed a discrimination complaint.
